To the Members of HUNTLEY NATIONAL and their Guests:

Dear Friends,—all:

It is with pride that we descendants of Nathan of Phoenix have the privilege of meeting with you folks in the village our common ancestor was so instrumental in building. Nathan was a carpenter, and several of the buildings in the Phoenix that many can remember before that disasterous fire of 1916 were monuments to his hands. As the old surrendered to the new; several have told of the trouble encountered in demolishing some of the buildings which Nathan had built with timber, beam and hand-hewed pegs. So welcome to Phoenix, another place that another descendant of John Huntly, Immigrant, was a pioneer.

Sincerely,

WAYNE E. HUNTLEY, President

NATHAN . . .

his Ancestors

Nathan Huntley, an early settler in Phoenix, Oswego County, N. Y., was the son of Amos and Delight (Tinker) Huntley.

Amos, father of Nathan, was a son of Amos and Phebe (Mack) Huntley, born in Lyme township, Connecticut, on March 17, 1764. He married Delight Tinker, daughter of Duran and Mary (Beckwith) Tinker. She was born January 17, 1765, in Lyme. They both died and are buried in Amsterdam, N. Y. Amos, son of this Amos, and brother of Nathan, moved to Marlow, N. H.; married Betsey Baker and are buried in the Marlow Village Cemetery. Nathan also had another brother, Martin B., who married Magdaline Voorhees; and a sister, Abigail Delight, who married James Billington. There were probably two other brothers, Silas and Russell, and possibly others.

Amos, senior, was the son of Daniel and Hannah (Brown) Huntley, born October 31, 1727, in Lyme, and died September 1, 1804. He married May 21, 1749, Phebe, daughter of Ebenezer and Hannah (Huntley) Mack. Phebe was born September 30, 1729. They are buried in Layville Cemetery, East Lyme, Conn. They had eleven children; Amos, junior, being the eighth.

Daniel Huntley, father of Amos, senior, was born May 25, 1682, at Lyme, and died January 14, 1732. He was married July 27, 1720, to Hannah Brown. Their graves have not been located. They had four children: Daniel, who went to Nova Scotia and married Sarah Ell and Betsey Wickwire. (It was his descendants who were celebrated by the HNA at the Norwich meeting in 1949.) Jacob, of Washington, Massachusetts; the revered Capt'n Jim, of Revolutionary fame, and the youngest son, Amos, who was grandfather of Nathan of Phoenix.

Daniel Huntley was the son of Aaron and Mary (Champion) Huntley, and Aaron is almost as familiar to us as his Immigrant father, John.

. . . NATHAN his Children

Nathan and "Peggy" were the parents of eleven children. The oldest of these was the forerunner of the largest line of Huntleys in the Phoenix branch.

Hugh Wright Huntley married Rhoda M. Hawks and they had eight children, Ferrand, Wayne, Daniel, Laura, James W., John, Emily and Edward. Laura, John and Edward died young.

Amos, the second child, married Sarah D. Cornell and they had five children: William, Marion, Clarence E., Esther, and Chauncey W. William and Esther died young and are buried in the Old Cemetery at Phoenix. The others married and had issue.

Silas married twice, (1st) Caroline Huntley and (2nd) Alida Jane Huntley, daughters of Martin B. Huntley of Amsterdam. Each wife had two children: Ida M. and Gilbert E.; and Carrie and Ellie. Ellie died young. The others married and had issue.

Hannah M., the fourth child, married Stephen B. Johnson. They had six children, Martha Ann, Charles W., Willard, Kit, George and Frank. The first three died young. The others married and had issue.

Margaret married John Rodgers and died without issue.

Eunice Ann married William H. Dean and had two sons, Frank and Clarence. Frank still lives in Amsterdam, N. Y., and is very feeble.

Edward married Sarah Tiffany and had one son, Frank, who died in 1949. They had issue.

James Huntley married Cornelia Whitney and had two children, Margaret and Edward. Margaret married William Day and died without issue. Edward married Emma Feldmann and had issue.

Russell Huntley married Caroline Stockel and had issue. They resided in California.

Cordelia married Alex Bowley and had issue.

George, the youngest child of Nathan and Margaret (Wright) Huntley, married three times (1st) Cordelia Hawthorn, (2nd) Mrs. Potter, (3rd) Mrs. Julia Debusie. There was no issue.
